

With the theme of “Reaching Out to Others,” Bishop Ben R. Chamness presided over his eighth and final Central Texas Annual Conference June 1-4 in Fort Worth. He will retire August 31.

It is under his leadership that the conference celebrates its 34th consecutive year of membership growth; full payout of General Church apportionments; four new Hispanic church starts this year; and the joyful afterglow of having recently hosted United Methodists from around the world for the 2008 General Conference.

Bishop Chamness and his wife, Joye, have served their entire eight years in Episcopal leadership in the Central Texas Conference. Their gracious spirits will be missed.

Dr. Tim Bruster and Bliss Dodd, lead delegates representing the CTC at GC08, shared some of the sights and sounds of General Conference with a video, and then brought highlights of the legislative decisions.

Bishop B. Michael Watson, Episcopal leader of the South Georgia area, was guest preacher for all the Annual Conference worship services. He stressed John Wesley’s three simple rules to do no harm, do good and stay in love with God; gave thanks for God’s use of imperfect people to share His love and accomplish His goals; and celebrated those who are set apart for full-time ministry during their ordination service.

Christian Conferencing

Rev. Karen Greenwaldt, a CTC member and general secretary for the General Board of Discipleship, led members through an extended time of explanation and practice of Christian conferencing. In written evaluations, members said this exercise resulted in the most meaningful Annual Conference they had ever attended. Christian conferencing sets forth guidelines for:

- always speaking respectfully
- listening patiently,
- striving to understand,
- being careful about expressing differences of opinion,
- reflecting accurately the views of others,
- avoiding inflammatory language,
- avoiding generalizations,
- using facilitators and mediators when needed,
- remembering all are defined by their relationship to God and not by their flaws, and

- choosing common ways to move forward.

Members soon had an opportunity to practice what they learned as they considered resolutions dealing with social issues of the day. As a result, members approved resolutions calling for:

- a just minimum wage;
  - inclusive local church membership,
  - support for restorative justice education and forming partnerships with existing ministry programs,
  - encouraging federal budget priorities aimed at health, education, energy, job training, repayment of the national debt,
  - urging leaders to cooperative with the United Nations to resolve differences without resorting to violence,
  - calling local churches to reduce their electric consumption by 10% by 2010.
- Members failed to affirm the Council of Bishops’ resolution asking for an end to the war in Iraq.

Conference Budget

With a narrative budget that shared personal stories of ministries that are transforming lives around the world, members approved a $10.6 million budget which reflects a 3.78% increase.

In other actions, members:

- heard an update on the ongoing need for work teams to repair homes damaged by Hurricane Rita in Louisiana;
- heard plans to publish the conference history for the 100th anniversary in 2010;
- discontinued two churches and started four new Hispanic churches;
- designated the Annual Conference offering for the Justice For Our Neighbors ministry which is operated in this area jointly by the Central and North Texas conferences. To date, the offering is $12,300.

Statistical reports indicate CTC membership at 162,511, up 776 from the previous year; worship at 46,837, down 1,038; church school at 60,717, up 437; and church attendance at 23,453, down 664.

Walker & Ecumenism Awards

Among the honors presented at Annual Conference were the Board of Laity’s Morris Walker Awards for outstanding contributions to church and community. The laity honor went to Jack Teddlie of Richland Hills United Methodist Church. His involvement in church even extends to baking the Communion bread, but he is also hands-on with Habitat for Humanity, McCurdy Mission School, Aldersgate Enrichment Center, Mullendorf Elementary School. Oakhurst Neighborhood Watch, United Methodist Men and others.

The clergy award went to Rev. Hubert Austin who, at age 78 and retired member of First United Methodist Church of Temple, continues in ministry by conducting chapel services and hospital visitations, meeting with church councils and parishioners when needed.

Also honored was Dr. Jesse Sowell, an ordained UM minister and professor of world religions and worship at Texas Wesleyan University. He received the Bishop’s Award for exemplary service in the field of ecumenism, presented by the Commission on Christian Unity & Inter-religious Concerns.

As a pastor for 15 years, Dr. Sowell was instrumental in fostering ecumenical worship and social responsibility in every community he served. He continues that spirit in his teaching. His students represent most faiths, and he requires them to visit worship services with Catholic, Jewish, Muslim, Orthodox and United Methodist congregations. For his study abroad classes, he has been known to help students from his own pocket so that they might experience a breadth of understanding and knowledge from a world view.

There will be more information about awards and scholarships in the next issue.

A Kernel of Truth

Reflections of the Bishop

By BISHOP BEN R. CHAMNESS

The United Methodist manner of appointing pastors to churches is unique, and it has proven to be very successful for more than two centuries. It takes into account the needs of the local church, the gifts and abilities of the clergy, and the concerns of the whole conference.

Consultation with the pastor and the Pastor/Staff Parish Relations

Committee are a significant part of the process. But the key ingredient is finding the means to have the most effective ministry in the community at any particular time.

All of the appointments listed here have had very careful examination by the Cabinet and the bishop. After discerning the will of God for each pastor and each church, these appointments are made with the hope and expectation that clergy and laity alike will work together to deliver the most effective ministry in each church.
